

Jeremy Maule Lecture – Lambeth Palace Library Visit
23rd September 2019

‘Wanting more, wanting better’

A lecture given by Professor the Right Reverend Lord Harries of Pentregarth

Please read the following before making your application.

This lecture will be given in the Great Hall at Lambeth Palace at 5.00 p.m. on 23rd September. We have organised a coach from Hereford, Broad Street, and the first 30 to apply will be shown round the Library and have an opportunity to see the Traherne MS identified by Jeremy Maule that includes The Kingdom of God. The numbers are restricted because only 15 people can look round the Library at once, and there will only be an opportunity for two groups to do so. The second group will visit Morton’s Tower first, where the conservation team is based, and then swap over with the first group. After this, light refreshments will be available.

The cost for the return coach journey and refreshments will be £40. (The coach will stop both on the way and on the return so that people can buy lunch and supper, or eat a packed lunch.) Those who do not wish to visit the Library, or who are not in the first 30 to apply, are still welcome to come on the coach and partake of refreshments for a reduced charge of £30. (The gap in the afternoon could be pleasantly filled by a visit to the Garden Museum next door to Lambeth Palace.) The talk itself is free and those already in London can simply arrive at the door.
